

- AUX ARCS is Carl James' fine collection of black and white photographs of the land, water, trees, buildings, flowers and natural beauty that make up the Ozark region of southern Missouri. The title comes from the French phrase for the region called "toward Arkansas." James brings an architectural eye to his photography and a love of the land that instantly become apparent to even the most casual observer of nature pictures. With a warm and enthusiastic foreword by naturalist David Catlin.
Amazon.com
- Carl, Jim Broadstreet just shared his copy of "Aux Arcs" book of photography and poetry-Wonderful! Jim Rutledge also gave me a framed "Christ Episcopal Church"
Ed Waters-Architect Partner of Marshall, Waters, Woody.
- Dear Carl, Thanks for the book, it is truly a work of art. We definitely want to have you down to Ozark County for a program and book-signing. Have a merry Christmas! John (John Harlan,
Chairman of the Board-Century Bank of the Ozarks.
- Hi Carl & Linda,
Thank you for the copy of your book. I have had a good look at it already. The photographs are quite stunning. Having seen you at work with the camera I can understand how you achieved these distinctive photographs
John and Margaret (Hay) of Scotland
- Hi Linda, I sure enjoyed visiting with you and having lunch with you last week. I fixed chicken quesadillas with the tortillas I got from the restaurant and they were really yummy. As you know, I had my Christmas party last Sat. night and I gave Carl's book to my brother who is also an architect. He absolutely loved it. Actually, Carl's book was the highlight of my party. Everyone loved it. My friend Meg said she was going to go on line and order 10 of them. I will be giving my neighbor Iris, Carl's book for Christmas at our Houston Lake Holiday gathering on Thurs. night. I'm sure the response will be awesome, as well. Please tell Carl how beautiful we all think his book is.
Kerry Hallowell